Mayor's Message:

City Solves Longstanding Water Problem

"This is a great day in El Mirage history! Staff has solved the City's water problem." These were my comments from the September 16 Council meeting following Deputy City Manager Larry Dobrosky's presentation regarding two purchase agreements negotiated with Greenstone Resource Group and GRP Interests. The City purchased 29,280 acre feet of what is referred to as "extinguishment credits." Under Arizona rules, extinguishment credits are generated when a grandfathered irrigation groundwater right is given up, or 'extinguished,' by an owner. The Arizona Department of Water Resources (ADWR) allows extinguished credits to be used by private entities or public organizations to offset recharging their annual pumping of groundwater. In the City of El Mirage's case, these newly acquired credits will help offset the ever-increasing groundwater recharge costs. ADWR, in an August 8 communication, assured the City it "...can use the extinguishment credits, in full or in part, in any year, to offset groundwater use."

The Problem

1983 - The State encouraged communities to apply for an initial allocation of Central Arizona Project (CAP) water, which remains the single largest source of surface water and alternative to groundwater in Arizona. The City of El Mirage, unlike its neighboring communities, decided not to apply for an allocation of CAP water.

1999 - The State, again, encouraged communities to apply for a second offering of CAP surface water. This time, El Mirage leaders applied for a small allocation of 508 acre feet, which proved insufficient to serve the City's future needs.

2000 - 2008 - With no new offerings for allocations of CAP water, the City became overly reliant on more expensive Central Arizona Groundwater Replenishment District (CAGR D) water. CAGR D's higher cost, coupled with emerging infrastructure and operating costs, placed the City's Water Fund in the red. El Mirage leaders did not adequately adjust utility rates to address what was becoming a dire problem.

August 2010 - The City

Central Arizona Project Canal

commissioned the Red Oak Study, an independent analysis of all the City utilities including water.

The Solution

December 2010 - Current Council was seated.

February 2011 - Council was presented with the findings of the Red Oak Study, which identified a need to increase water rates to allow the Water Fund to become self-sufficient.

May - June 2011 - After considering all alternatives, Council made the difficult decision to implement the findings from the Red Oak Study, but elected to lessen the immediate impact to El Mirage citizens by spreading the recommended increase over a three-year period from 2011- 2013. Council also requested that staff do all things necessary to reduce the need for further increases beyond 2013.

October 2012 - The City purchased 1,824 acre feet of the City of Goodyear's excess CAP allocation to reduce the City's need to purchase more expensive CAGR D water.

May 2013 - The City requested the Red Oak Study be updated with the hope of reducing the need to increase rates. City Manager Dr. Spencer Isom commits to no additional increase in water rates through 2019.

October 2013 - The City purchased an additional 4,275 acre feet of the City of Goodyear's excess CAP allocation. The City applied for and received an annual allocation of 1,318 acre feet of CAP water.

September 2014 - The City purchased 29,280 acre feet of extinguishment credits from Greenstone Resource Group and GRP Interests, ending the City's over-reliance on more expensive CAGR D water.

Central Arizona Project Canal

City Manager Isom commended his staff, explaining that the extinguishment credits purchased September 16 at a cost of $150.00 per acre foot, "...is a great example of out-of-the-box thinking that will allow the City to keep its pledge to citizens not to raise domestic water rates at a time when the cost of water in Valley communities is on the rise. This is a big deal for the City of El Mirage, and is expected to save citizens $10 - $20 million over the next thirty years."

Ribbon Cutting Held for F-35A Academic Training Center

On October 9, 2014, El Mirage Mayor Lana Mook attended the F-35A Training Center Ribbon Cutting at Luke Air Force Base.

This facility will help train the future F-35A pilots from the United States and from partnering countries around the world.

The new facility will provide state-of-the-art training for fighter pilots and continue Luke's mission to train the world's best fighter pilots.

The audience of about 175 people included elected leadership from the community, representatives from groups who worked on the facility and Airmen from Luke who will use the ATC.

The event's speakers included Gen. Robin Rand, Air Education and Training Command commander; Col. Kimberly Colloton, 60th commander, Army Corps of Engineers, Los Angeles district; and Art Cameron, Lockheed Martin's F-35 site director at Luke AFB.

Thermal imaging camera awarded to El Mirage Fire Department

El Mirage Fire Department is extremely fortunate to have recently been awarded a new thermal imaging camera valued at more than $9,000 from the Firehouse Subs Public Safety Foundation.

The thermal imaging camera (TIC) is a valuable tool that can be used to help save lives.

The thick, dense smoke from an interior fire can quickly make it impossible to see anything. Thermal imaging firefighting cameras can assist in finding victims through smoke and locate the center of a fire by seeing the heat energy emitting from it.

Even after the fire has been extinguished, a thermal imaging camera can detect unseen embers buried in debris or in concealed spaces which, if undetected, can cause fires to re-kindle. Additionally, the life-saving benefits of thermal imaging are not just limited to structure fires. Firefighters can use them for a rapid assessment of motor vehicle accidents, wild land fires, search and rescue operations, commercial and industrial fires, and hazardous materials emergencies as well.

• Annual monitoring letters for existing housing projects were sent out. Additional homes were found to be foreclosed on or sold without the City being notified.

After a meeting with one of the funding sources, we have been given the approval to release liens on some of these projects. This will greatly reduce the monitoring and maintenance of these files.

El Mirage Fire Department welcomes Firefighter Logan Jewell

On October 6, 2014, El Mirage Fire Department held a pinning ceremony for their newest firefighter Logan Jewell.

Logan comes from the City of El Mirage Fire Department Cadet Program and has extensive training from the Glendale Community College Fire Academy and graduated as the "Top Rung" of his class. Welcome Firefighter Jewell!

The El Mirage Fire Department (EMFD) began in the early 1960s when the citizens recognized the need for fire protection in the community and formed the El Mirage Volunteer Fire Department. As the community continued to grow, so did the fire safety and emergency medical calls for service.

Today the EMFD responds to nearly 3,000 calls for service annually.

ED Insights: Real Estate Trends in Mixed Use Development

One of the more popular national trends in commercial real estate, including Greater Phoenix, is mixed use development. Mixed use refers to combining several land uses (e.g. residential, transit, commercial, etc.) in a single district, as well as multiple uses in a single building. This type of development can occur in urban, suburban, and rural areas. In recent years, retirement communities and urban cores have been popular locations for mixed use development.

Tom Doyle
Economic Development Specialist

In El Mirage, the City has identified several areas zoned for mixed use. This makes sense since our City is land locked and the projected positive growth patterns to the Northwest Valley remain strong. Mixed use also satisfies a growing trend among millennials (usually 18 - 29 year olds) to live, work, and play near each other. The most common tenets of mixed use development are the following:

- Inclusion of desired urban conveniences in a pedestrian friendly environment

- Inclusion of complementary hotel, office, retail, and housing spaces together
- Promotion of vertical instead of horizontal developments
- Incorporation of several forms of movement into a single development including biking, walking, train terminals, and automobiles
- Consideration of environmental costs/gas prices

In El Mirage, the real estate market is cautious regarding mixed use development. The level of discomfort is felt in the commercial and housing finance industry where calculating the income and profit potentials of a mix of uses creates complex pro formas. The best recipe is when one business cycle weakness in one component can be supported by the others. Mixed use development would also be more attractive if commuter rail comes to El Mirage. Commercial and residential use would increase with this transit option, opening opportunities to build retail and residential or retail and office buildings. In addition to commuter rail, the Thunderbird overlay project could also open opportunities for mixed use developments. The widened roadway will improve pedestrian and bike travel, offer underground utilities, include urban style lighting, and promote walkable streetscapes. One way or another, mixed use will be a part of the City's future and that is a good thing.
